Art Unit: 1761

Claims 1-39 are objected to because of the following informalities: trademarks are not permitted in the claims. Appropriate correction is required.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Doherty et al (US Patent No. 5607716) for the reason set forth in rejecting the claims in the last Office action. The new claims are not seen to influence the conclusion of unpatentability previously set forth.

Doherty et al teach a food composition comprising soluble solids in the claimed ranges, a sweetener system (e.g. high fructose corn syrup), carrageenan, and water (see entire document, especially column 3, lines 24-49). In Example 1, Doherty et al teach a caramel composition comprising 53% soluble solids of which 84% are high fructose corn syrup solids, no sucrose, 0.45% carrageenan, and water. Doherty et al also teach that the carrageenan is blended into the hot corn syrup, the other ingredients are added and the resulting mixture is cooked to adjust the solids content (see column 6, lines 5-12).

The claims appear to differ as to the gelation temperature.

The gelation temperature is a consequence of the composition and thus a value below 95 degrees C would be inherent and/or obvious to that of Doherty et al.

Applicant's arguments filed September 2, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Examiner has not established inherency.

The prior art clearly teaches Applicant's composition. The claiming of a new use, new function or unknown property which is inherently present in the prior art does not necessarily make the claim patentable. In re Best, 562 F.2d 1252, 1254, 195 USPQ 430, 433.

Applicant refers to data/experiments from the Reply to the Written Opinion. It is noted that this information is not in declaration format.

Applicant's arguments fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.111(b) because they amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 1761

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
